Re-Opening at a New Location The main purpose of this fractional OO is to inform you all that I have a new address, so that my ex-roommates aren't baffled by a deluge of packages around late January. (The USPS says they'll forward mail, but....) So send those cards and letters to:

Bernadette Bosky
4815 Hillsborough Rd
Apt #1
Durham, NC 27705

It's a lovely and spacious place, too, by the way; it's a little out of the way (about 5 miles from campus) but I figure that simply by getting those mailings out of the car (yes!) I'll save enough mpg to make up for it.

And More Good-News-- A-Go! That's CoL, or Change of Lifestyle, as well as a CoA. Actually, I'll be doing much what I'm doing now; I just decided to take a year off of the formal academic track before taking prelims.

I have some article ideas I want to work up for journals, even want to try some fiction writing--and I've been without time to write poetry for simply too long. But this does mean that the pressures on me will be less, which removes any qualms I'd had about being OE now and running for OE again. (I still won't run for a third term, though.)

You Can Prove You're Not a Vampire by sending in your picture, of course. Just a small--and with all the holiday picture-taking, timely--reminder that there are enough pictures to go ahead with the project, and that it'd be nice to have as large a percentage represented as possible. If you have pictures of Acolytes other than yourself, send them (or copies of them) as well. Thanks.

Well Hay, Hay, Hay Since it's been over a month and I've gotten no comments, I assume that you're as pleased with the wording of the letter to the John Hay library--that is, Mr. Stanley--as I am, so I'm going to send it off soon, perhaps during the holidays. That's at least one campaign promise I will have kept.

I want to wish all fellow-Acolytes the best Holidays and finest New Year that the Dark Gods have to offer. Have a good time, and remember that the next deadline is February 2, 1979, Saturday. Blessed be.
